Background

Hilden Brewery is a family run microbrewery based in Hilden, near Lisburn in county Antrim.

This small family business has been producing award winning beers since 1981 and was somewhat of a revolution in Ireland as it was the first brewery to reintroduce real ale and consequently is Ireland's oldest independent brewery.

In the 1990s a Visitor Centre and Restaurant was developed as a shop window for the brewery beers. The brewery is managed by Owen Scullion, a qualified and full time brewer, who joined the business in 2005.

In January 2014 the company announced a significant investment in its production facilities to grow sales of its award winning range of beers abroad by installing a new automated bottling line and increasing storage capacity.

The expansion includes the development of a new bottling hall for the automated line as well as offices and a gift shop adjacent to a testing hall that will be used for beer tasting following the brewery tour. Conference facilities are also planned.

The company also runs Northern Ireland's only annual beer and music festival.
