Ispini Charcuterie

Ambient Chilled

Background

Jonny Cuddy has been farming with father Raymond and brother Robert since leaving university and now looks after 300 sows on the family farm near the border with the Republic of Ireland.

He started developing charcuterie to "increase the return from our pigs," & established Ispini Charcuterie, a small food business in August 2016. Ispini takes its name from the Irish for sausages.

All of the meat is sourced from Northern Irish farms who share Jonny's values of provenance, welfare & taste.

The Ispini range is handmade in small batches, from cutting, blending, curing to hanging - a truly artisan experience.

Free delivery on all orders over £30 to UK & Ireland.
